ORDER

Plaintiff Stephon Suggs, a prisoner incarcerated at Telfair State Prison, filed this pro se 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action. Doc. 1. On November 8, 2023, Suggs was ordered to file a recast complaint within fourteen days using the Court's standard form and was warned that the failure to fully and timely comply with the Court's orders and instructions could result in the dismissal of this action. Doc. 5. Fourteen days passed and nothing was filed. Thus, Suggs was ordered to show cause why this action should not be dismissed for failure to comply with the Court's orders. Doc. 6. In response, Suggs filed various miscellaneous documents. First, Suggs filed an affidavit seeking—among other things—appointment of a special master and a three-judge panel, a meeting with a United States Marshal and a Georgia Bureau of Investigations agent, return of missing property, and another copy of the Court's standard form(s).¹ Doc. 7. Suggs next moved for a temporary restraining order directing defendants to provide him adequate medical care and to refrain from retaliating against him. Docs. 8; 8-1. Last, Suggs moved for an extension of time to recast his complaint, in part, because he needed another copy of the Court's standard form. Doc. 9. The Court mailed Suggs another copy of the Court's standard form on December 27, 2023, and granted the extension on December 28, 2023. On January 23, 2024, Suggs again moved for an extension, which the Court granted. Docs. 10; 11. But Suggs never filed a recast complaint.² Accordingly, United States Magistrate Judge Charles Weigle recommends dismissing this action without prejudice for failure to comply with the Court's orders and instructions and for failure to prosecute. Doc. 13. The Magistrate Judge also recommends denying Suggs's motion for injunctive relief as moot. Id.

There are no objections. Accordingly, the Court reviews the Recommendation for clear error pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). After review, the Court accepts the findings, conclusions, and recommendations of the Magistrate Judge. The Recommendation (Doc. 13) is ADOPTED and made the Order of the Court. As previously warned, the failure to comply with the Court's orders and instructions is grounds for dismissing this case. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 41(b); Brown v. Tallahassee Police Dep't, 205 F. App'x 802, 802 (11th Cir. 2006) ("The court may dismiss an action sua sponte under Rule 41(b) for failure to prosecute or failure to obey a court order." (citing Lopez v. Aransas Cty. Indep. Sch. Dist., 570 F.2d 541, 544 (5th Cir. 1978))).³

² The Court's order (Doc. 11) granting Suggs's second motion for an extension of time (Doc. 10) was returned to the Court as undeliverable and was marked with a notation indicating Suggs "refused to sign for and accept this letter." Doc. 12.

³ The Eleventh Circuit has adopted as binding precedent the decisions of the former Fifth Circuit rendered prior to October 1, 1981. Bonner v. City of Prichard, 661 F.2d 1206, 1209 (11th Cir. 1981).

This action is hereby DISMISSED without prejudice,⁴ and Suggs's motion for injunctive relief (Doc. 8) is DENIED as MOOT.

SO ORDERED, this 27th day of March, 2024.

MARC T. TREADWELL, CHIEF JUDGE
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
